You could get compensated...

Current or former workers who contract Chronic Beryllium Disease (CBD) from exposure to beryllium while working for the DOE, its contractors, or subcontractors may be eligible for a lump sum payment of $150,000 and payment of medical expenses from the date of filing the claim. If the worker is deceased, certain survivors may be eligible for the lump sum payment.

Those who test positive for sensitization are eligible for payment of medical expenses.

If you test positive for CBD or beryllium sensitization, contact the Energy Employees Compensation Resource Center at (509) 783-1500 or (888) 654-0014 to get help filing a claim.
