4. Reduction in Force Severance Pay Benefits.

A Participant who is laid off as part of a reduction in force and who is eligible will receive severance pay based on length of service with his or her Employer. An eligible employee will receive one (1) week's pay for every year of service, to a maximum of twenty (20) weeks. An employee with less than one (1) year of service will receive no benefit under this Plan.

“Pay” means the rate of base salary or wage in effect at the date of layoff before any salary reduction contributions to an Internal Revenue Code Section 125 cafeteria plan and excluding payments by the Employer on account of medical, disability and life insurance. Further, in no event shall benefits paid under this Plan be paid later than the last day of the Employee’s second tax year following the date of severance.

5. Special Provisions Applicable to Employees of Enterprise Companies.

In the event an Eligible Employee of an Enterprise Company or its successor is laid off from employment as part of a reduction in force at such Company under circumstances that under this Plan would have entitled the Eligible Employee to benefits under this Plan from his or her then Employer if he or she had been laid off on September 30, 1996, benefits under this Plan shall be paid to such Eligible Employee subject to the following:

- a. The Eligible Employee must meet all of the requirements of this Plan that would have otherwise entitled him or her to benefits as if the layoff had occurred from the employ of his or her then Employer on September 30, 1996;

- b. The Eligible Employee will receive credit under Section 4 for service with the Enterprise Company and its successor;
- c. The amount of severance pay due the Eligible Employee under this Plan shall be reduced by any severance pay received under a severance pay plan of the Enterprise Company or its successor; and
- d. The severance pay protection offered by this Plan shall end upon the Eligible Employee's terminating employment with the Enterprise Company and its successor for any reason whether or not any benefits are payable hereunder and reemployment shall not entitle the Eligible Employee to any reinstatement of rights hereunder.

For the purpose of this section, an "Eligible Employee" is a person who meets all of the following: (A) on September 30, 1996, the individual was an eligible employee of an Employer sponsoring this Plan on such date, and (B) between October 1 and December 31, 1996, the individual was mapped to employment by an Enterprise Company. "Enterprise Company" means any one of the following: Fluor Federal Services, Lockheed Martin Services, Inc., Areva NC, Inc., and Energy Solutions Federal Services, Inc. "Successor" means a successor to the Enterprise Company's contract or subcontract or a company to which the Enterprise Company's work scope is transferred. To remain eligible for benefits on layoff by a successor, the employee must be employed by the successor immediately following employment by the Enterprise Company and receive no severance pay from the Enterprise Company. An employee offered comparable employment by a successor who declines the offer shall not be entitled to severance pay hereunder.

6. Time and Form of Payment.

In the event of a permanent layoff, an employee has the option of receiving his or her severance pay in a lump sum or delaying receipt of severance pay for a period of six (6) months. A permanent layoff is one that the Employer determines at the time of termination of employment will exceed six (6) months. In the event of the death of an employee prior to receipt of all severance pay to which the employee is entitled, the remaining benefits will be paid to his or her estate. Severance pay benefits will be paid from the general assets of the Employer. No trust fund or other segregated fund has been established for this purpose.

No severance pay benefits will be paid until the employee signs any required release of all claims against the Plan Administrator and the Employer, their officers, and affiliates, on a form provided by the Employer, and any revocation period established by any applicable law or regulation has expired without revocation of the release by the employee.

7. Option to Repay Severance Pay.

An employee who is rehired prior to the expiration of six (6) months may elect to repay severance pay received if (a) the employee was permanently laid off and received a lump sum severance pay allowance, or (b) the employee was on an indeterminate layoff and elected to receive severance pay prior to six (6) months of layoff. Repayment shall be completed within one (1) year from the date of reemployment in which event service credited under Section 4 prior to the layoff will be restored. In the event the employee fails to repay the total severance pay received within one (1) year from the date of reemployment, all service previously accumulated under Section 4 will be permanently extinguished. The employee will be entitled to credit for service under Section 4 hereof upon completion of one (1) year of continuous service, which year will be credited under Section 4.

Repayment will not be permitted upon reemployment where the layoff is in excess of six (6) months. On rehire, the employee will be entitled to credit for service under Section 4 hereof upon completion of one (1) year of continuous service, which year will be credited under Section 4. If an employee is rehired and is again laid off within one (1) year from the date of the date of reemployment and prior to the repayment of the total severance pay received, the employee will be entitled to the restoration of a pro rata amount of service credited under Section 4.

Except upon repayment as provided in this section, an employee shall never be entitled to severance pay for a period of service credited under Section 4 for which he has previously received severance pay.

8. Loss of Severance Pay Credits.

In the event of a termination of employment other than one for which severance pay is due hereunder, all service under Section 4 will be extinguished. In the event the employee is rehired, service under Section 4 will be restored only pursuant to the provisions of the Project Hanford Company Service Regulations as now in effect or hereafter revised or individual Sponsoring Employer company service regulations to the extent inconsistent.

13. Legal Service.

Any legal notices regarding this Plan should be sent to the Plan Administrator.

14. Claims Procedure.

A claim for benefits shall be directed to the Participant's Sponsoring Employer. If a Participant disagrees with an initial response to a claim for benefits under this Plan, the Participant may make a claim to the Sponsoring Employer. This claim should be in the form of a letter stating why the Participant disagrees and should include all facts and information the Participant wants the Sponsoring Employer to consider. The Participant will be advised of the acceptance or rejection of his or her claim within 90 days after the claim is received, unless special circumstances require an extension of time for processing the claim. If the Sponsoring Employer requires an extension, written notice of the extension will be furnished to the Participant prior to the end of the initial 90-day period. The extension will not exceed an additional period of 90 days. The extension notice from the Sponsoring Employer will state the special circumstances requiring the extension of time and the date by which the Sponsoring Employer expects to make a final decision.

In the event the Participant's claim is denied, it must be denied in writing and the denial must state in detail the specific reasons for the denial, the specific plan provisions upon which the denial is based, any additional material or information that the Participant may provide that would entitle him or her to the benefits claimed, and an explanation of why such material or information is necessary. The notice of denial must also explain the steps to be taken if the Participant or his or her beneficiary wishes to submit a claim for review. If notice of denial of the initial claim is not furnished within the time period allowed above, the Participant's claim will be deemed denied and the Participant may proceed to request a review of the denied claim.

A Participant may submit a claim for review by the Sponsoring Employer. If the Participant chooses to submit a claim for review, then within 60 days after the date the claim is denied, the Participant or his or her authorized representative must make a written request for review. The Participant's request for review of a denied claim should include a statement of the reasons the claim should be allowed. The Participant or his or her representative may examine any documents the Sponsoring Employer has in its files and will use in reaching a decision, and the Participant may also submit additional written comments that support the Participant's claim.

The Sponsoring Employer will advise the Participant of the decision in writing within 60 days following receipt of the Participant's request for review, unless special circumstances require an extension of time for processing. If an extension is necessary, a decision will be made as soon as possible, but not later than 120 days after the receipt of the Participant's request for review. If an extension of time for review is required because of special circumstances, written notice of the extension and the reasons for needing more time will be furnished to the Participant prior to the commencement of the extension. The decision on review will be in writing and will include specific reasons for the decision, as well as specific references to the plan provisions upon which the decision is based. The decision of the Sponsoring Employer will be final and will be subject to no further appeal or review.

15. ERISA Rights.

This statement of ERISA rights is required by federal law and regulation. A Participant in this Plan is entitled to certain rights and protections under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA). ERISA provides that all plan participants shall be entitled to:

(a) Examine, without charge, at the Employer's office and at other locations, such as worksites, all Plan documents, and copies of all documents filed by the Plan with the U.S. Department of Labor, such as annual reports and plan descriptions.

(b) Obtain copies of all Plan documents and other Plan information upon written request to the Plan Administrator. The Plan Administrator may make a reasonable charge for the copies.

(c) Receive a summary of the Plan's annual financial report. The Plan Administrator is required by law to furnish each Participant with a copy of this summary financial report.

(d) Obtain a statement of your total Plan benefits. This statement must be requested in writing and is not required to be given more than once a year. The Plan must provide the statement free of charge.

In addition to creating rights for Plan Participants, ERISA imposes duties upon the people who are responsible for the operation of the Plan. The people who operate the Plan, called "fiduciaries" of the Plan, have a duty to do so prudently and in the interest of Plan Participants and beneficiaries. No one, including the Employer or any other person, may fire a Participant or otherwise discriminate against a Participant in any way to prevent the Participant from obtaining a Plan benefit or exercising rights under ERISA. If the Participant's claim for a Plan benefit is denied in whole or in part, the Participant must receive a written explanation of the reason for the denial. The Participant has the right to have the Plan review and reconsider his or her claim. Under ERISA, there are steps a Participant can take to enforce the above rights. For instance, if a Participant requests materials from the Plan and does not receive them within 30 days, the Participant may file suit in a federal court. In such a case, the court may require the Plan Administrator to provide the materials and pay the Participant up to $110 a day until the Participant receives the materials, unless the materials were not sent because of reasons beyond the control of the Plan Administrator.

If the Participant has a claim for benefits that is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, the Participant may file suit in a state or federal court. If it should happen that plan fiduciaries misuse the Plan's money, or if a Participant is discriminated against for asserting his or her rights, the Participant may seek assistance from the U.S. Department of Labor, or may file suit in a federal court. The court will decide who should pay court costs and legal fees. If the Participant is successful, the court may order the person the Participant has sued to pay these costs and fees. If the Participant loses, the court may order the Participant to pay these costs and fees, for example, if it finds the claim is frivolous. If a Participant has any questions about the Plan, the Participant should contact the Plan Administrator. If the Participant has any questions about this statement or about his or her rights under ERISA, or if the Participant needs assistance in obtaining documents from the Plan Administrator, he or she should contact the nearest office of the Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, listed in the telephone directory, or the Division of Technical Assistance and Inquiries, Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20210. A Participant may also obtain certain publications about his or her rights and responsibilities under ERISA by calling the Publications Hotline of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.

16. Right to Amend or Terminate Plan.

Each Sponsoring Employer intends this Plan to be a continuing program. Nonetheless, each Sponsoring Employer may terminate its participation in the Plan at any time by written notice to the Plan Administrator and its employees' rights to benefits not in pay status shall be extinguished on such termination. The Plan Administrator reserves the right to amend or terminate this Plan at any time and to terminate all Participants' rights to receive benefits hereunder and/or extinguish all service credited under Section 4 to the date of termination or amendment. Until a Participant's involuntary termination of employment under circumstances entitling the Participant to benefits hereunder, the Participant will have no vested or nonforfeitable right to benefits under the Plan.
