STRETCHING FOR CHARITY: CH2M HILL Hanford Group employees stretch during Riverfest at Columbia Park on Fathers' Day weekend. About 510 people participated in 5-kilometer and 10-kilometer runs, and in a one-mile family fun run. The annual event, sponsored by several Hanford contractors, raised about $32,000 for non-profit agencies in the Tri-Cities.

A FAMILY AFFAIR: Office of River Protection Manager Harry Boston and his son, Harry Jr., turned out for the ORP all-employee picnic June 2 at Howard Amon Park in Richland.

CELEBRATING SAFE DRIVERS: Keith Klein, manager of the Department of Energy Richland Operations Office, congratulates drivers with the Environmental Restoration Contractor team for logging 5 million miles without an at-fault accident. The miles were logged since 1996, when the Environmental Restoration Disposal Facility began accepting contaminated materials from Hanford cleanup operations. Also participating in the appreciation ceremony and dinner were Tom Hash, president of Bechtel National; Mike Hughes, president of Bechtel Hanford; Pete Wold, president of RCI Environmental; and Dave Molnaa of the Hanford Atomic Metal Trades Council.

LOCAL CHAMPIONS: Hanford High School students sponsored by Bechtel were among the 61 teams that competed in the Department of Energy National Science Bowl in Washington, D.C., in May. Bechtel sponsored eight teams from across the country. Hanford High School team members included, left to right, coach Brian Palmer, Bob Stroup, Jared Silvia, Susruta Maiti, Kyle Littlefield and Peter McLean.
